SESSION NOTES.

OTTAWA, May 20, '99.

The expected has happened and the Douglas bill to allow the shipment of grain direct from flat warehouses to railways where now prohibited by the C. P. R., was thrown down with the usual dull sickening thud by the special committee appointed to deal with it. As a consequence the elevator men are sure of another season of monopoly throughout Manitoba and along the main line of the C. P. R. in the Territories. A large contingent of the grain trade philanthropists were on hand, as on the former occasion, but it was only to attend the funeral; the corpse had already been arranged for. Hon. Sidney Fisher, minister of agriculture, and Bertram, liberals, and Tisdale, Rosamand, Casgrain and Haggert, conservatives, stood up manfully with voices and vote to protect the western farmer from the consequences of a mistaken idea that he ought to have a free competitive market for the sale of his produce. Douglas, Rutherford, Richardson and Oliver spoke and voted for the bill, but were in a minority of two. Bain, liberal, was chairman. Other members of the committee not present were: Hon. Clifford Sifton, Hon. Sir Henri Joly, Davis, Campbell and Bourassa, liberals, and Roche, conservative. That the bill was killed when the committee was named is shown not less by the action of those who were there than by the absence of those who were not there. With the exception of the minister of agriculture the responsibility of killing the measure was left to Messrs. Bertram, Tisdale, Casgrain and Rosamand, none of them admittedly having any knowledge of the subject; and therefore in a position to shirk responsibility to anyone other than the combined monopolies of railways, banks and elevator owners, whom it appears to be their chief business in parliament to serve. The members of the committee opposed to the bill arrived at their conclusion by the simple process of accepting the opposition offered to it as a reason why it should not pass; and refusing to accept the statements made or reasons given on behalf of the western farmers as to why it should pass. They rejected general statements as to existing abuses because they were not particular instances, and they rejected evidence of instances of abuses, because they were only single cases and did not necessarily prove a general condition. It would be like to deny—as it is impossible to excuse, the share of the government in the affair. With three members of the cabinet on the committee the conclusion is irresistible, in view of the result, that the government united with the opposition to continue the control of the western grain trade by the existing combine. The C. P. R. is wiser in its generation in concealing its hand. Although it has fought the bill from start to finish, both last year and this, when everything had been arranged for its defeat, at the last moment Judge Clark announced the withdrawal of the opposition of the railway company to it. They were quite willing he said to bow to the decision of parliament. As a piece of good tactics as well as of fine irony, this could scarcely be excelled. Quite different from the cat-and-cheat position taken by the minister of agriculture, who announced his opposition to such a retrograde step as the shipment of grain from flat warehouses. No doubt it would be a pity to discommodate the C. P. R. or the banks, or to take something from the present profits of the grain dealers by allowing the farmer an open market for his grain, but it is a question how far the satisfaction of seeing his grain handled by the most modern appliances will fill the void in his pocket caused by the unrestrained rapacity of the elevator combine. The combine can afford to pay well for the exemption from competition which they have secured.

The question of the transportation of western grain by Canadian canal and railway routes eastward from Fort William was discussed at length on Wednesday. This question is attracting more and more attention in the house each year, as the volume of grain from the Northwest increases. Notwithstanding the Canadian canals and railway systems by far the greater part of the grain of the Northwest finds its outlet through New York instead of Montreal or St. John. For a time the question of the transport of western grain to the seaboard was looked upon as a matter of concern only to the western producer and the transportation companies. Had there been no other outlet for our grain than the port of Montreal it would no doubt be the same yet. But fortunately the United States port of New York is as free to Manitoba grain as that of Montreal; and United States transportation companies are as ready to handle Manitoba as any other grain. Eastern Canada generally is slowly awakening to the fact that the west has no particular interest in trading through Montreal, that it is the east which is interested in having western grain shipped through that port. Therefore the cheap transportation of western Canadian grain from Fort William to Montreal is one of the most important questions in eastern Canada to-day; and is drawing a great deal of favorable attention towards the west. Unfortunately the interest in transportation does not yet extend west of Fort William, but no doubt as the interest grows it will expand. It was admitted on all hands that the idea that vessels could profitably carry grain from Fort William to Montreal, through even the fourteen foot canals now being completed, was exploded. Such vessels could only carry 60,000 to 70,000 bushels at a load. The trade was now being done by vessels carrying 250,000 bushels, plying to Georgian Bay ports or to Buffalo, the grain being taken from the former ports to Montreal by rail and from Buffalo to New York by rail and by the Erie Canal. The enlarged canals might be used by vessels carrying 60,000 bushels from Port Colborne to Montreal, as a route competing with the railways from Georgian Bay ports; but vessels of that size could never again compete on the upper lakes. All arguments pointed to the fullest possible improvements of the port of Montreal.

McMullen spoke at great length on his bill to amend the civil service act. The purpose of the bill was to put the civil service on an ordinary footing as to duties, pay and privileges. This has been the baby of Mr. McMullen ever since he has been in parliament. During long years of opposition he talked on it session after session and was cheered on by his colleagues. Now that his party is in power he does not find that the principles which they cheered so lustily when in opposition have been adopted. Faithful to his idea, however, each session he has religiously introduced his bill to require a fair day's work for a fair day's pay from the servant of the government, and each session he has been turned down to an accompaniment of more or less respectful and soothing words. This time he was vexed and talked loud and long and strong—to mostly empty benches on his own side of the house. Sir Richard Cartwright—the watch dog of the treasury (!)—was the only minister present, and he expressed his appreciation of the arguments advanced by moving the adjournment of the debate, which at this stage of the session meant the killing of the bill. The adjournment was agreed to without a division amidst jeers from the opposition at the mover of the bill.

The Drummond Counties railway purchase was considered on Thursday. Hon. John Haggert, ex-minister of railways, spoke at great length on the extravagance of the bargain made by the government. While he was minister he had considered the advisability of extending the Intercolonial to Montreal. He had been offered the Drummond Counties railway for $500,000. The government was now paying $1,500,000. He did not explain why he did not close with such a manifestly good offer. Hon. Mr. Haggert's statements are logical and convincing; their only weak point is their possible lack of foundation in fact.

Ross Robertson, conservative, Toronto, supported the purchase of the Drummond Counties railway by the government. The price of $1,200,000 a mile might be too high; but only a day or two ago the same men who were now declaring that this was too much, had voted that a bonding power of $35,000 a mile was not too much to allow the Columbia and Western railway, or branches which were not yet even located.

The cat is out of the bag at last. In other words the much talked of and long expected redistribution bill, or gerrymander act (the name varies according to which side of the house pronounces it) was read the first time on Friday. This is the bill which the opposition have declared their intention of fighting until snow flies, ever since it was announced in the speech from the throne. The possible provisions of the bill were a mere matter of unimportant detail. The fact that it was intended to lay unholty hands on the scheme by which they had captured Ontario on one memorable occasion was sufficient justification for the most deadly opposition. Now that the measure is before the house its importance does not seem to justify the outcry that has been made against it. It chiefly affects Ontario and to some slight extent Quebec. No change is made west of Lake Superior. An unimportant change is made in Prince Edward Island; and in New Brunswick a peculiar provision whereby an elector in the city of St. John voted for the county member, while the county elector was not allowed to vote for the city member is changed so that the electors in city and county are on an equal footing. No change is made in Nova Scotia. The alleged purpose of the bill is to undo as far as possible an injustice perpetuated upon the two principle provinces by the conservative government years ago, whereby bodies of voters of certain well defined political proclivities were for electoral purposes thrown together or separated as would best suit the then ruling party, without regard to municipal boundaries or the convenience of the people. No doubt in the work of undoing the injustice of their predecessors, the liberal government will pay some regard to their own interests. At the same time they have made an appearance of fairness that was conspicuously lacking in the former measures. In Ontario they take the boundaries of the counties and cities as the basis of the boundaries of the electoral districts. Where the present districts conform to those boundaries there is no change. Where the city or county is entitled to more than one member by reason of population the duty of cutting it up into ridings is placed in the hands of a commission of judges. In Quebec the changes are only such as are necessary to place the constituencies as they were before the gerrymander by the late government. On the whole the proposition seems to be eminently fair; but the opposition can only be expected to make the strongest attempts to hold on to the unfair advantages which they now enjoy. Their main contention so far is that counties known to be liberal are given larger representation in proportion to population than cities known to be conservative. On the other hand the government contends that the principle that a rural population is entitled to greater representation than a city population has always been conceded.

SESSION NOTES.

There is the danger in any attempt to redistribute the representation with regard to the political proclivities of the people affected that the measure will react on those who framed it. People may be very fixed in their political preferences, but to have the idea that they are not open to argument embodied in an act of parliament is always objectionable, and may be resented. There is no doubt that for this reason the liberals did not lose by the gerrymander act of the conservatives as much as they expected, and possibly for the same reason they will not gain by the present act as much as they hope. It is thought by many that they could very well have waited until the next census would have made a redistribution absolutely necessary and have made a fair redistribution absolutely possible. The vest would then come in for the increased representation to which by population it is entitled. The delay over the redistribution of this session will have to be repeated when the redistribution on the basis of the census comes to be made.

The report of R. C. Clute, Q. C., special commissioner appointed to enquire into the causes of the deaths of Fraser and Macdonald, two workmen on the Crow's Nest pass railway who died of diphtheria and pneumonia at Pincher Creek in January of 1898, has been laid on the table. The report substantiates in every particular all that was alleged against the management of the Crow's Nest railway regarding treatment of employees, both in general and in particular. It suggests that in future the government should appoint an engineer and a medical officer on such large works to protect against like abuses in future. The report is a very good report, but it is a year and a half behind time. All these facts would have been brought out at the time the crime occurred, when the ends of justice could have been served, had the department of justice not made itself a means of shielding the culprits. Now although everything alleged has been proven it is too late to secure substantial justice in the matter.

The house adjourned last night until Thursday next. The Queen's birthday occurs on Wednesday next, and Ontario and Quebec members who generally go home on Friday nights and come back on Monday did not want to come back until after the holiday. The fact that the jockey club races are on at Toronto during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday have had something to do with the desire of many to be "at home" on the 24th. It is safe to say that a majority of the members—constituting a majority of the house—who find it convenient to be at home on Sundays and holidays, and who are ever ready to take up an excuse for an adjournment on other days, would attend more closely to their duties in the house to which they were elected and less to their own private business or pleasure if they did not do their continual travelling back and forward on railway passes. That the use of a pass is a great convenience to members of parliament cannot be denied—such a convenience that it has become a necessity or an abuse, according to the point of view. If it is a necessity the member should be relieved from the obligation under which he now rests to the railway company by its issue being made compulsory. If it is an abuse it should be abolished.

A DELEGATE'S IMPRESSIONS.

EDITOR BULLETIN.

Having just completed a tour of inspection of the Edmonton district, as a representative of a number of people in my state who contemplate removing to the Canadian west, I wish to hereby express my thorough satisfaction with all that I have seen. A district such as this is a great and pleasant surprise to the land seeker after travelling over the uninviting wastes that lie along the main line of the C. P. R. for so many miles. I have endeavored to spend my time while here in gleaming all possible information about the country, its prospects and resources. I have driven through the surrounding settlements to see and hear for myself, and I must say that all I have seen and heard has served to impress me more in the country's favor. As a slight mark of my faith I have purchased a quarter section not far from Fort Saskatchewan; and though rather old myself to change my home, I can truly say that were I a young man, anxious to make money I would move here and take up land, for I believe the opportunities it offers to young men are unsurpassed. In my town (Rochester, Minnesota) there are $300,000 on deposit in the three banks, and of this amount it is estimated that $250,000 belongs to the farmers of the district; and these farmers have to sell their beef for $3.50 a hundred, their pork at $2.75 and their potatoes at 20 cents a bushel. Here I see beef and pork are $4 a hundred and potatoes 80 cents a bushel. If the farmers of Minnesota can save money at the prices there, what should the farmers of Alberta be able to do with those prices increased, and living expenses as cheap if not cheaper?

Yours truly,
W. W. GILBERT,
Rochester, Minn.

THE COMMISSIONERS.

The treaty and scrip commissioners left for the Landing this afternoon on their northern journey, which will probably last between four and five months. The party will number in all about 60, including the commissioners and their staff, the police escort and the Hudson's Bay Co. boatmen. No scrip will be issued until after the treaty is completed with the Indians at each point touched at. The scrip commissioners take the scrip along and will issue it at once. Scrip will be paid at Edmonton when the commissioners return in the fall, probably about the last of October. Payment at other points in the Territories will also be made in the fall.

IMMIGRATION DELEGATES.

The following immigration delegates came in last week: J. B. Johnson, P. E. Iose, Laverne, Minnesota; Messrs. William Hansen and J. W. Christie, of Fillmore County, and J. W. Hanson, of Cass County, Nebraska; J. N. Cox, Taylor Co., Iowa. These delegates were surprised to see such a large farming settlement north-east and west of Edmonton and to see the prosperity of the farmers. They considered that the town of Edmonton was bound to become a large and important mercantile centre in the very near future.

The Galicians who arrived on the 23rd numbered in all 539 souls, instead of 478 as reported. They had a total capital of $14,511.00. A large number of these people served in the Austrian army. They are more intelligent than some of their countrymen who preceded them, and can also speak the German language. All appeared in good health upon their arrival, with the exception of two small children, about one year old each. One of these died the following morning, the other is recovering.

A Blessing from God and Holy Tongue.

The greatest scientific discovery of a century has been made in tropical Polynesia, on the island of Tongatabu, or Hough Tonga, in the South Sea. From investigation and experiments conducted by the medical authorities among the tropical forests, a preparation, known to the natives for years and jealously guarded by them as a profound secret, was found possessing a marvellous power to cure the human system in health and disease. It is known to the natives of the Friendly Islands as Manna. It is a delicate, fine, red, saccharine oil, which quickly finds the blood and system with giant cells, and thus creates a new life. It creates prodigious capillary circulation, nutrition, nerve power, and vital force; in a few days it restores and cures the very worst cases of malaria, giving up to the patient, and in a few hours it will remove the cause from the blood, and thus the tongue of half-consciousness, putting them on their feet in a few days. Individuals who have been bed-ridden for years gain five pounds a week, and eat three meals in one. Many consumptives, wasted to a skeleton, regain their health, and night sweats, have been cured in from one to three months. Manna has cured hundreds of such cases where all the best directed efforts of science have failed. It is ten fold more active and powerful in recuperating cases of very low vitality than any known means. In six weeks it will cure half the disease in pneumonia. It cures cancer, increases, frightful ulcers, and all diseases the result of impure blood or sluggish circulation, with incredible speed; restores and cures in the worst stage in a few days. Cures enlarged tonsils, adenoids, asthma, sciatica, and inveterate sore eyes in a few days; for the weak, young children it acts like magic, transforming them into veritable robusts. Imparts great courage, confidence, strengthens the voice, animates the face, clears the skin, exhilarates the mind and body, produces strong physiological action, gives prodigious strength to the heart, slows the rapid pulse, and increases the working power of a marvellous degree. It acts strongly on the stomach, liver, heart, lungs, and through the cells and absorbs to every part of the human economy, imparting strength, vigor and a pleasurable sensation of satisfaction to the mind and body. All parts and organs of the body partake of this wonderful rejuvenating process. It works wonders daily, exhilarating and toning, producing sound refreshing sleep at night.

The above is not exaggerated or overdone, it has been thoroughly tested and among natives and Europeans (whites) by the government medical officers during the past three years. This is an entirely new remedy, in use by no physician known to the world. Sample packages will be sent to any part of the world, carriage prepaid, on receipt of five shillings ($1.25). Amount sufficient for the most inveterate case for one guinea ($25). In writing, describe the case, as well as a description of the individual requiring it. Send money by registered letter, American. Canadian or British currency in good here, or send draft on London, Australia or New Zealand bank. Address for the government of Tonga.

.Boots.

..AND..

.Shoes.

There is nothing that gives a person more pain than an ill-fitting boot. It always reminds you that there is something wrong.

We have known men (a woman would not do it) who would buy shoes that did not fit, because they were cheap. That is not economy, because one sacrifices five dollars' worth of comfort for a dollar or so.

We sell shoes that FIT, made after the shape of human feet.

Our range this season is the most complete we have ever shown, comprising the very newest lines produced.

For women we carry the celebrated "BELL" SHOES which is synonymous with comfort, style and durability. Try a pair.

PIC-NIC AT THE FORT.

Owing to the high water, the steamboat excursion to and picnic on Point L'Epée on the 24th, had to be changed to Pilon's Creek, about three miles above the Fort. There a large gathering congregated, many being present from Edmonton, Agricola and other points. The Milling Co's steamboat Minnow made four trips from the Fort to the creek bringing on each trip additions to the crowd already there.

As a preliminary to the festivities an address was given by Mr. H. M. Bing who, after referring gracefully to Her Majesty the Queen, whose 80th birthday they had gathered to celebrate, touched on matters of interest to the west, and dealt with railway rates and competition, upholding the position taken by the member for Alberta, and calling on his constituents to give him their undivided support on the stand which he had taken.

Dancing, games and a number of well rendered selections by the police band under the leadership of Const. Clarke, passed the afternoon pleasantly away and the day was brought to a successful termination by addresses and vocal and instrumental selections. J. W. Shera, M. L. A., welcomed those present; spoke briefly of the day and Queen Victoria's illustrious reign; and closed by touching on the need of railway competition, mentioned the proposed loop line to run from the present terminus eastward and back again, and hoped that when they went to their picnic on the next 24th they could do so "on the cars."

Rev. Mr. Forbes gave a brief and pleasant address; several songs were rendered by Const. Clarke and others, and with some excellent instrumental music by Mrs. W. J. Walker, organ, and Prof. Beaver, violin, the celebration was brought a pleasant termination and the homeward trip commenced by moonlight.

A substantial sum was realized for the Presbyterian church, in aid of which the pic-nic and excursion were held.

LACOMBE.

A number of ranches are exchanging owners. The old settlers are selling the new, investing in cattle and moving farther back.

W. Barwis was here in the interests of the Manufacturers Life Insurance company.

H. Bowland and family are taking a trip east. They will remain until fall, and while away will visit Winnipeg, Dakota, Ontario and Chicago.

Dr. Gilmour, veterinary surgeon, has given up his ranch at Buffalo lake and has taken one near Lacombe, where he will be better able to attend to business.

At the quarterly board of the Methodist church Rev. E. Michener received a unanimous invitation to take charge of the church at the expiration of Rev. E. Chegwinn's pastorate this incoming year. The district meeting of the church is being held this week, the 23rd, and 24th. The church of England will hold their first service here on the 28th, in the Methodist church, at 11 a. m.

A concert was given here last week by a travelling company. Owing to the inclement weather the audience was but small. H. Sims and bride visited Lacombe on the 14th. They intend residing in Calgary. Potatoes are in great demand and at present are $1.25 per bushel.

May 22nd, '99.

A CORRECTION.

EDITOR BULLETIN.

Regarding an item in your issue of the 22nd inst, mentioning that the engine of the dredge "Otter" was broken through an oversight on the part of the engineer who omitted to draw off the exhaust from the steam chest, I wish to make a correction. I was engineer on the steamer "Otter" and emphatically state that the broken engine was caused by the steam being closed off while the engine was running at full speed, and not through any neglect of mine.

Yours truly,
